Civil Service World

Civil Service World exists to help civil service leaders and managers understand their working environments and achieve more in their jobs. Providing authoritative, high-quality journalism to the civil service and national politicians, our print title is the only independent professional publication available to every senior civil servant in the UK.

The brand's success is based both on our unique access to top Whitehall officials, and the trust we've built up across government. For more than a decade, we've worked to keep civil servants informed about what's happening across government: the people, agendas, policies and reforms that – for good or ill – affect your working life. Both magazine and website are produced by Dods [1], the specialist political publishing house.

CSW online offers a free daily bulletin of the latest independent civil service news, opinion and analysis [2], a weekly editorial round-up of the week in Whitehall, and breaking news alerts for those can't-miss stories. Sign up now and stay up-to-date with the issues that matter to you.
